Comcast's culture is built on integrity and respect, with the goal of working together to drive ourselves and our businesses to always be creative, innovative, and competitive. We are guided by:

- An entrepreneurial spirit
- Doing the right thing & acting with integrity
- Respect for each other
- Giving back

Public policy issues affect our customers, our employees, and our business every day. Traditional regulation and legislation are constantly evolving and attempting to keep up with the new reality of media, technology, and communications available across multiple platforms, on multiple devices – from traditional broadcast and cable to delivery over the Internet and wireless.
